

As hair recovery

Option A is recommended for regular clients that have fragile, damaged hair but not in an extremely damaged condition. The treatment should be done once or twice a month.

180 degrees	For fine, thin, blonde, highlighted and very damaged hair (elasticated)
200-210 degrees	For coarse, thick, damaged, but not elasticated hair

Extreme hair recovery

Option B is recommended for clients that have gone through an aggressive chemical procedure, causing breakage or even an elasticated hair effect. The treatment should be done in a 2 or 3-days interval, completing a course of 3 sessions, and the client should only have their hair washed in the salon, during this extreme hair recovery treatment, to avoid further damage and breakage.

180 degrees	For fine, thin, blonde, highlighted and very damaged hair (elasticated)
200-210 degrees	For coarse, thick, damaged, but not elasticated hair
Hair dryer only	In the first session, if hair is extremely damaged

Prior to and after bleaching (to protect hair)

Option C is recommended for clients that have fragile hair, showing signs of damage and want to go through a discoloring procedure. This should be done to assure that the hair will have an extra protection to cope with the chemical procedure coming next. It can also be applied after bleaching/highlights procedure.

After bleaching and highlights procedure is complete you can also apply Cell. It will intensify hair recovery and strength.

Recovery and intense nourishment by combining with Hydramax

Option D is recommended for regular clients that have fragile, damaged, as well as dry, dull and porous hair, but not in an extremely damaged condition, the treatment should be done once or twice a month.
